BUREAU OF CONSUMER FINANCIAL PROTECTION,

Plaintiff,

v.

PROGREXION MARKETING, INC., et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:19-cv-00298-BSJ

[PROPOSED] STIPULATED FINAL JUDGMENT AND ORDER

PARTIES' STATEMENT

Plaintiff Bureau of Consumer Financial Protection (“Bureau”) commenced this civil action on May 2, 2019, to obtain injunctive and monetary relief and civil penalties. The suit alleges, among other things, that the Defendants violated the credit repair advance fee provision of the Telemarketing Sales Rule (TSR), 16 C.F.R. § 310.4(a)(2), by billing clients for credit repair services before the timeframes required by the advance fee provision had expired. On March 10, 2023, this Court issued an order agreeing with the Bureau’s position.

Credit repair organizations that market or sell their services over the phone, irrespective of whether they promise a specific result to consumers, must follow the TSR, including the advance fee provision. That is, credit repair organizations that market or sell services over the phone may not request or receive payment of any fee for credit repair services until (i) the time frame in which they have represented all of the goods or services will be provided to that person has expired; and (ii) they have provided the person with documentation in the form of a consumer report from a consumer reporting agency demonstrating that the promised results have been achieved, such report having been issued more than six months after the results were achieved. And no business may substantially assist a credit repair organization that it knows or consciously avoids knowing is engaged in an act or practice that violates the TSR, including by doing such things as providing back office support, technical know-how, lead generation, or data that supports their non-complaint credit repair practices or billing.

The Defendants and the Bureau have now agreed to settle the litigation. As part of the settlement, Lexington Law, CreditRepair.com, and Progrexion—the largest credit repair organizations in the United States—have agreed that, among other things, they will not violate the advance fee provision of the TSR, nor will they knowingly assist or support any company that is violating that provision.

Consumers considering using a credit repair company should be aware that it is illegal for a company to charge them for telemarketed credit repair unless it has been six months since the company achieved the promised results. Their consumer report has to show that the promised results were achieved six months earlier than they can be billed. Credit repair organizations accepting clients via inbound or outbound telemarketing must conform their billing practices to the full requirements of the TSR, including the advance fee provision of the TSR.

BACKGROUND

The Amended Complaint, filed on August 17, 2022, names as Defendants PGX Holdings, Inc., Progrexion Marketing, Inc., Progrexion Teleservices, Inc., CreditRepair.com, Inc., and eFolks, LLC (collectively, the “Progrexion Defendants”) and John C. Heath, Attorney-at-Law, PC (“Heath PC”) (collectively with the Progexion Defendants, “Defendants”). The Bureau and Defendants are collectively referred to herein as “the Parties” to the above-captioned civil action (“Action”).

Count I of the Amended Complaint alleges that Heath PC and the Progexion Defendants engaged in abusive telemarketing practices in violation of the credit repair advance-fee provision of the Telemarketing Sales Rule (TSR), 16 C.F.R. § 310.4(a)(2). On March 10, 2023, this Court granted partial summary judgment in favor of the Bureau on liability under that claim (the “March 10, 2023 Order”), holding that all Defendants had violated 16 C.F.R. § 310.4(a)(2) since March 8, 2016. The Court did not reach the question of what relief, if any, is appropriate under Count I. Defendants disputed the Court’s findings in support of the March 10, 2023 Order and preserved their rights to appeal that order. Defendants’ time for appealing the March 10, 2023 Order has not begun to run. As part of this settlement and compromise, Defendants neither admit nor deny the allegations in Count I and waive their rights to appeal the March 10, 2023 Order.

Counts II-V of the Amended Complaint allege that the Progexion Defendants engaged in deceptive acts and practices in violation of Sections 1031 and 1036 of the Consumer Financial Protection Act of 2010 (CFPA), 12 U.S.C. §§

5531 and 5536, and deceptive telemarketing acts or practices in violation of the TSR, 16 C.F.R. § 310.3.¹ Specifically, the Amended Complaint alleges that the Progexion Defendants, in order to generate credit repair sales for Lexington Law and CreditRepair.com, relied on a network of marketing affiliates who advertised a variety of products and services, often related to consumer credit products. The Amended Complaint further alleges that certain of those marketing affiliates, referred to herein as the “Hotswap Companies,” used deceptive, bait advertising to generate referrals to Defendants’ Credit Repair Services. As alleged in the Amended Complaint, during a “hotswap” telephone call, the Hotswap Company’s telephone agent would pitch Defendants’ Credit Repair Services to the consumer, and then live-transfer (or “hotswap”) the consumer to Defendants’ telemarketing agent to attempt to close the credit repair sale. The Amended Complaint alleges that the Progexion Defendants paid the Hotswap Companies for each credit repair sale that resulted from their efforts, despite knowing that they engaged in deceptive practices. As part of this settlement and compromise, Defendants neither admit nor deny the allegations in Counts II-V.

On June 4, 2023, Defendants filed voluntary petitions for relief under chapter 11 of title 11 of the United States Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101–1532, in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Delaware. Defendants’ Chapter 11 cases are being jointly administered under the lead case In re PGX Holdings, Inc. Case No. 23-10718 (CTG) (collectively, the “Chapter 11 Cases”).

Plaintiff and all Defendants, by and through their respective counsel, now jointly request that the Court enter this Stipulated Final Judgment and Order (“Final Order”).

51. Under Section 1055(c) of the CFPB, 12 U.S.C. § 5565(c), in consequence of the March 10, 2023 Order and the Parties' agreement to compromise and resolve the matters at issue in Count I of the Bureau's Amended Complaint, and taking into account the factors in 12 U.S.C. § 5565(c)(3), Heath PC must pay a civil money penalty of $18,408,726 to the Bureau.

- b. Seek or accept, directly or indirectly, reimbursement or indemnification from any source (other than any of PGX Holdings, Inc.'s parent companies, shareholders, or former shareholders), including but not limited to

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that:

To preserve the deterrent effect of the civil money penalties in any Related Consumer Action, Defendants may not argue that they are entitled to, nor may any Defendant benefit by, any offset or reduction of any compensatory monetary remedies imposed in the Related Consumer Action because of the civil money penalties paid in this action or because of any payment that the Bureau makes from the Civil Penalty Fund (“Penalty Offset”). If the court in any Related Consumer Action grants such a Penalty Offset to any Defendant, the Defendant must, within 30 days after entry of a final order granting the Penalty Offset, notify the Bureau, and pay the amount of the Penalty Offset to the U.S. Treasury. Such a payment will not be considered an additional civil money penalty and will not change the amount of the civil money penalties imposed in this action.

Notice for Enrolled Telemarketed Credit Repair Customers

The notice shall state as follows:

On May 2, 2019, the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau (“Bureau”) sued Lexington Law, CreditRepair.com, Progrexion Marketing, and several other companies, alleging that they violated various consumer financial protection laws and regulations. The case was filed in Federal District Court in Salt Lake City, Utah, and is captioned CFPB v. Progrexion Marketing, et al., 19-cv-00298-BSJ.

On March 10, 2023, the Federal District Court issued a ruling finding that Lexington Law’s and CreditRepair.com’s billing practices for telemarketed credit repair services violated the advance fee provision of the Telemarketing Sales Rule. Specifically, the Court found that Lexington Law and CreditRepair.com charged customers without waiting six months after demonstrating, via a consumer report, that the promised results of the credit repair service had been achieved. The Court’s decision and other information about the case is on the Bureau’s website

<https://www.consumerfinance.gov/enforcement/actions/pgx-holdings-inc/>

Lexington Law, CreditRepair.com, and the other defendants dispute the Court’s partial summary judgment ruling and informed the Court and the Bureau that they intended to appeal, before reaching an agreement to settle the case.

The Bureau and the defendants have now agreed to settle the case. As part of that settlement, Lexington Law and CreditRepair.com are reaching out to you to remind you that—as stated in your attached engagement agreement—you have the right to terminate your credit repair services at any time and for any reason (or no reason at all). If you wish to terminate your credit repair services, please click on the link below (or call XXX-XXX-XXXX between the hours of 1pm and 4pm Mountain if you lack access to a computer or other electronic device). If you would like to continue to receive credit repair services, no action is necessary and you will continue to be billed according to your contract.
